

Aunt Minnie: The 2020 election and radiology's future

As the U.S. anticipates the results of the 2020 presidential elections, healthcare continues to be among the biggest concerns for the American people. A faltering economy and a healthcare system devastated by COVID-19 await the attention of the next president. Collaborative Imaging's CEO, Dhruv Chopra, MBA wrote a piece for Aunt Minnie explaining the implications of the election for practices and radiologists across the country.

Read full article here.